

English for Speakers of Other Languages (ESOL)

Aims and Objectives:

The expansion of the EU has placed a considerable demand on employers across Scotland with significant increases in the number of migrant workers now employed across the country and in many sectors. The need to be able to communicate effectively with skilled labour whose first language is not English has never been more important to the economy than it is now.

A wide range of learning opportunities exist for both employers and employees to gain confidence and competence in communicating effectively with each other and the company's client base.

Learning Outcomes:

Whilst there may be opportunities to develop bespoke ESOL workshops for differing businesses the main topics covered by ESOL language tuition include:

- Everyday Communication
- Transactional Contexts
- Work and Study Related contexts

Target Group:

Employers and employees who wish to raise the overall language capabilities of the organisation.

Duration:

Tuesday evening / Saturday morning – three hours per week for 36 weeks

Workshops are also available in a variety of formats with flexible delivery options
